SINGLE MALT WHISKIES

Scotland Single Malts are divided into three main types, categorized by the area of distillation.

HIGHLAND MALT WHISKIES

These include Speyside, all distilled north of the highland line. They tend to be full-flavored, slightly smoky and at times robust.

LOWLAND MALT WHISKIES

Distilled south of the highland line, these whiskies have a gentle, mild character with little pronounced flavors. Lowland malts are highly suitable for the base of Scotland's fine selection of blended whiskies.

ISLAY MALT WHISKIES 0.04 l

These "Campbelltown malts" are produced on the islands off the west coast of Scotland. They are characterized by their pungent, full flavor which embodies a hint of sea air.
